The Ground Floor

Once upon a time, as the story goes, a Fox and a Ground-hog went out for a walk, and their talk ultimately drifting on to the subject of the various schemes which even in that day were being presented to a credulous public by which they mignt Get-Rich-Quick, the fox recognizing the increasing in-terest of the groundhog in the subject, remarked; "Would you like, my boy, to get in on the ground floor of an obsolutely sure thing?" and the ground-hog's readiness to embrace such an exceptional opportunity being immediately communi-cated, the fox said: "All right then, you have only to open your mouth and the plum will fall into it—there you are;" and suiting the action to the word, he pointed to a juicy piece of meat which was hanging from a push near by. As the ground hog reached for it, the carefully ealed trap, to which the fox had all along been leading him, was sprung, and the fox walked off with the meat. The foxes which are on your track to-day are more numerous than ever, and the number of get-rich-quick schemes with which et is also increasing The ground-floor-plan is worked over - time, and the "fox" in ninety-nine times out of one hundred walks off with the plum". ### Laurier Will Probably Appeal to the People

The opposition have frequent ly suggested that before the Government go any further they should consult the people of Canada in a general election. There is a great deal to be said in favor of the idea of such a reference to the electorate. The Conservative portion of Parliament, who represent a considerable portion of the people of Canada, is placing itself unmistakably on record against in-crease of trade between this country and the United States.

It's attitude is clearly defined and it's policy is being set with more and more emphasis as a policy of hostility not only against the proposed reciprocity agreement, but against any trade between the Dominion and the country to the south that can be checked, blocked and prevented. This has necessitated the formation of a new dectrine. Heretofore the party British House of Commons wa of protection have held fast to the dogma that imports are de-plorably baneful to the interest and benches waveing hats and of the country's best progress handkerchiefs and welfare, and that exports are beneficial and advantageous and constitute the true measure of the country's prosperity and advancement. No less manifest than the hostility of the Conservative Party in Parliament to reciprocity is the opposition of certain business interests to the proposed trade arrangements with the United States. That opposition has been shown Gainsville, Georgia, last Thurs in several ways. There being day. thus a plain division of opinion, it may well be argued that s submission of the question to the vote of the whole people would be desirable.

There is no part of Canada that is more vitally interested in this matter than the West. The demand for reciprocity has come most persistently from that part of the Dominion.

One of the arguments used by the opposition of reciprocity in the East is that the West must not be allowed the gratification of its desire to trade with the United States. That being the ease, then if there is to be a general election, the West must have a fair show in the proceedings and be allowed to ragister its will adequately, which under existing repre-

eral more representatives than it has now. That is to say, if the Dominion constituencies in the West were to be redistributed The West is entitled to sevbuted now, in such a way as to increase their number by a score, the Eastern constituencies being left as they are, a House of Commons then elected would be one in which the West would be justly represented. In a house elected on the present basis, the West would be under-represented, as it is in the present House Those twenty more members to which the West is entitled might conceivably determine the result.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Of seventy one thousand BELLEVUE voters registered in Seattle twenty two thousand are women. The question of votes or women seems to have had a pretty fair test there, for in the election which was held lately for the purpose of appointing a mayor to take the place of Mayor Gill, who was recalled from office - largely by virtue of the women's vote - a larger proportion of women voted than men, and the women's votes were said to be the decidity of the firet alarm bell which caused the party by Mr. H. In Seattle, at any rate, the argument that women would not value the franchise sufficiently to exercise it will henceforth find few backers.

The partition was not very thick, and the giri often heard him whistling or singing in the next room. His rejectory was extensive and confusing. "She's the besteat girl that is, and i need her in my bix." would float in to her, followed perhaps by the strains of "Samson et Dallia" or some unsic equally fine.

One knew the sort of man who would sing coon songs with gusto; also the sort that would hum bits right of the sort that would have been sometimed by the sort of man would take an impartial delight in both. So in the intervals of her work she began to speculate about her unknown neighbor.

At the end of two months she tabulated her knowledge of him. He was gay and debonair. Witness the scraps of song that foated in to her. He was gay and debonair. The Meaning of Millions.

The Meaning of Millione.

In astronomical calcutations if is most difficult to grasp the meaning of millions of miles, but some idea in this connection may be gathered from the statement of the time that would be consumed by an express train or the shot from a cannon to cover celestial space. Hard Persance In Mexico.

The Mexicans are extremely religious, and their faith enters into their daily lives to a remarkable extent. During Holy Week the native women who are anxious to do penance for their sins go on their knees from one shrine to another, devoring bours to the painful task. At this time temporary shrines are set up, and in the genote villages it is no intrequent sight to see bail a dozen parties of penileuts traveling in this manner over the sharp stones and gravel from one shrine to the other, apparently oblines and the the burning rays of the sun and the distribution of the considered to detruct from the merit of the penance, and most of the women—it is always the females who undertake the task—go through with it scoraling any such protection.—Wide World Magazine.

The Slaves of the Heap.

Amusement was to be found in the fashions of three centuries and no less than in those of today. When the landauta Isabel traveled from Spain to bee kingdom of the Netherlands in 1500 nothing ther biographer. Mr. L. Klingenatein, tells us diverted her so much as the enormous hoops affected by the laddes of Lorraine. "On one occasion, when the infanta and her hostess were forming a procession of ladies, they remained struggling amid a confused mass of those devilight faritingales' for more than an hour, while the infanta and those ladies whe were without these powerful defenses were almost "squeezed out of shape" by their hooped sisters. Each had three attreduants to help her to move her skirr about, and when they sat at a med two mes had the farthingales over the arms of the chair."
